It is with great precision that different malt and grain whiskies are selected and blended in Japan. The aging in oak barrels brings complexity and character to this whisky made to be drunk dry.

HINOTORI 5 YEARS OLD BLENDED JAPANESE WHISKY

ALCOHOL : 43% STYLE : Blended

It is distilled by the small distillery of the same name "Hinotori" which rises from its ashes after a stop in its production. This grain whisky and malt whisky have been aged in new American white oak barrels for 5 years.

FUYU JAPANESE BLENDED WHISKY (MIZUNARA FINISH)

This is a three-year-old blend made up of 50% malt and 50% corn. This hand-blended whisky comes from three distilleries around Kyoto, on the island of Honshu. This whisky is matured in American white oak casks, with a six-month finishing period in a Mizunara barrel.
